GROWING WORK IN STATE CHARITIES

The preliminary report of the state board of charities for the two years ended Sept. 30, 1812 has recently been presented to Governor Ealdwin. The complete report will be ready for presentation to the general assembly and for distribution as soon as printed. Mention is made of 111 institutions in the state for the care of delinquent, defective and dependent persons that are subject to visitation by the board. In addition to these institutions, many of the 188 towns in the state, of which 72 maintain almahouses, are visited by the board to examine the almshouse or other provision made for the care of the poor.

Placing Out Children. A larger work than usual in the way of placing out and supervising children from the county temporary homes has been carried on by the two women members of the board, Mrs. M. H. C. Mitchell of Norwich and Miss Anna C. Walter of Middletown, who have been assisted during a portion of the time by a special agent.

New legislation is urged to give the board more authority to carry into effect the recommendations that it may find necessary to make.

The total cost to the state for the care of its delinquent, defective and dependent classes is large, and the coming years give promise of increased demands for the establishment of new institutions and the necessary development of those already organized. Segregation of the socially or physically unfit is ultimate economy, however, and prevention, as well as cure, must be the watchword for the future. The report is signed by the members of the board and the secretary, as follows: Thomas F. Kane, M. D., president, Hartford; Martha H. C. Mitchell, Norwich; Anna C. Walter, Middletown; Edwin A. Down, M. D., Hartford; Justin B. Holman, Saybrook, and Charles P. Kellogg, secretary, Waterbury.

A shop talk, in the series conducted by the Y. M. C. A., was given at the plant of the Crescent Fire Arms company at noon time Thursday. The meeting was opened by a few remarks by General Secretary E. R. Starkey of the association, and Rev. F. W. Coleman, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, followed with the address, He told of his experiences in machine shops before he entered the ministry, Rev. Mr. Coleman said he was convinced that religion was a necessity in every man's life. He said he was able to, present his views from the standpoint of a layman, as the conviction had some to him before he had become a minister. His talk was very interesting.

If we take the women patients, for instance, and put them to work making quilts or a market for the sale of the same? What housekeeper would want to purchase one of these articles, knowing it was made in a tuberculosis institution? As to our men, there is lots of work that they might do, but it would be a sime; and still there are hundreds who are employed today in the preparation of food stuffs, and people do not stop to realize the great danger from their employment. For the support or assistance of such of the institutions mentioned as receive state aid and for other allied agencies, the appended tables show that there was expended by the state in the fiscal year 1911 a total of $1,507.40, of which $1,209,299.82 was devoted to maintenance, supervision, etc., and $452,207.58 was expended for building, additions, etc.

Longest in Service.

Judge John Q. Thayer, a republican, like Judge Purple, has a record of which he may be proud. His health has not been of the best of late and the vacation will not be unwelcome. He has probably held the place as long, of not longer, than any of his predecessors. Judge Thayer will be 76 years old March 24, 1913, and this is the age limit prescribed by law. Both Judge Thayer and Judge Purple, although nearing the limit of a judge's tenure of office, have the assurance of years of usefulness yet ahead of them. He has been city attorney, associate judge and clerk of the city court, holding the latter office for thirteen years.

The cost to the state for prisoners n jells for the eight counties has usen from $107,984 in 1910 to $122,768 in 1912. At the Connecticut hospital for the insane an increase is noted from $205,238 in 1910 to $214,583 in 1912, while the development of the tate hospital at Norwich is shown by the growth in its demand upon the Calvin A. Snyder of North Stonington.

Calvin A. Snyder of North Stonington-has a prolonged record, holding the office of judge of probate for the district of North Stonington for sixteen years, beginning in 1897. Another judge who began his service in 1897 is Elmore S. Banks of Fairfield, who has also served continuously for sixteen years. Judge Banks is so well known because of his experience as speaker of the house in 1909, his leadership of the house in 1911 and his work as prosecuting attorney in Fairfield county that he needs no introduction. the growth in its demand upon the state treasury from $59,373 to $61,467 in the same period. By acts of the general assembly of 1911 the annual appropriations to general hospitals were increased in several instances so that the record for 1912 shows $123,875 paid out to 23 hospitals, as against $113,137 given to 22 hospitals in 1910.

District of Washington. Tuberculosis Work Quadrupled.

The greatest increase in expenditure in any one department under consideration is easily found in the amounts devoted to the campaign against tuberculosis which was started by the appointment in 1903 of a state board of three directors to establish and conduct county sanatoria for the treatment of this disease. The amount so expended from the state treasury in 1910 for the maintenance of the county sanatoria, the administration of the state board of directors and appropriations granted to two private sanatoria of this character was $57,517, while in 1912 the expenditure for similar pur-

The twelve-year record for continuous service is held by John K. Bissland of Enfield, who went into office in 1901. His district includes Thompson-ville.

As noted in recent reports, the operation of the state nauper law of 1807 has largely augmented the demand upon the state treasury since its adoption for the support of paupers not having legal settlement in any town. The amount so expended in 1909 and 1801, about $58,000 each year, rose in 1911 to $68,345, and then in 1912, for some obscure reason, fell to Eight Years in Office. Charles W. Cramer of Portland, who retires as judge of the district of Chatham, which includes Portland, has served eight years, taking office in 1905. He is a graduate of the Portland High school and of the Yale Law school in the class of 1904. Another judge with the same record as regards time of service is Engene C. Dempsey of Danbury. His district includes Danbury, and New Fairfield.

Judge Studley in New Haven. When it comes to those who have served six years, precedence should be given to Judge John P. Studley of New Haven, who has served since 1907.
Mayor Studley, as he is usually called has not yet reached the age limit, but he stepped aside for his chief clerk, John L. Gilson, who has for a number of years been an active force in the management of the important probate office in New Haven. Mr. Gilson was elected and the management of the office will continue with little change. The office is very important, the district taking in New Haven, East Haven, Hamden, North Haven, Orange and Woodbridge.

John F. McDonough of Naugatuck began his continuous service in 1907, as did Charles D. Lockwood of Stamford, and John T. Hubbard of Litchfield.

His house was in kindling wood in less time that it takes to write it.

Seven cottages have gone, some completely, while others have saved a little material. They are all in danger. A gang of workmen are moving seven back as fast as possible. Eat Three Meals a Day and Let Stu art's Dyspepsia Tablets Digest Them. The Stomach Soon Re-covers After This Brief Rest.

The very worst thing you can do it The very worst thing you can do is to starve yourself to overcome stomach misery. Make your meals just as comprehensive as possible. Use Stuart's Dyspepsia 1, blets freely for swhile and all trace of stomach trouble will be gone. Bitting is a fallacy. The intensive farming and gardening of the present day is tacking in the quantity of flesh-forming tements of former days. Thus we get a surplus of starch; meats are often despoiled of much of their nutritive quality; the soil is depleted of the amount of vegetable saits it ought to have. We do not obtain the natural ripened fruits and vegetables, hence the stomach requires assistance to digest an overabundance of fibrous material and take care of fruit acids that nature had no care of fruit acids that nature had no chance to convert into grape sugar. So we need more to sin than the system can supply, more diastase, more of the natural tonic and preservative properties which ripened vegetation should give us. The deficiency is made up in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is the only way to have stomach-health under modern conditions.

Mrs. Jeremiah Donovan of Hunter's avenue has recovered from a recent attack of illness.
